

Talent Alliance, Inc. Launches NEW MilitaryJobZone.com™

Austin, TX – June 22, 2009 – Talent Alliance, Inc. (www.talentallianceintl.com) announced today the launch of their redesigned MilitaryJobZone.com career center. The site has an intuitive user interface for both employers and job seekers. Not only does the site pair companies with the top candidates on the market, it also has a free resource center to fully prepare military members for their transition to the civilian sector.

MilitaryJobZone is run by former military members with years of experience in the military recruitment and placement industry. The experience of the team in the recruiting industry, along with their strong military community network, translates into the best available resource for employers and job seekers. MilitaryJobZone exposes candidates to employers that understand the value and immediate impact military experienced candidates can bring to their organization. Regardless of rank, military members entering the civilian workforce have leadership experience, a relentless work ethic, excellent communication skills, and a focus on mission accomplishment.

“MilitaryJobZone stands apart from traditional job boards. We take a different approach than other so called ‘military’ sites. Many of these boards are just portals for recruiters to pick and choose the candidates they need. Our approach is to only list viable, live jobs from companies specifically targeting military candidates and the intangible skills they bring to the table,” said Mike Stucki, VP of Technology Services for Talent Alliance, Inc. “Additionally our free resource center is filled with valuable resume and interviewing preparation material that other sites charge a premium for. We are a company founded by former military members and we believe it is our duty to help other transitioning military members not only as experts in the industry but also as someone that as gone through the process.”

MilitaryJobZone originally launched on March 27, 2006. Since that time the site has averaged over 4,000 unique visitors per month. Brian Davis, CEO of Talent Alliance, Inc. said “The site has been a huge success. We have had a tremendous response from both job seekers and employers alike. Since its inception we have assisted thousands of military members with their transition to the business world and have helped companies Nationwide to secure top notch talent. We see massive growth potential with our new platform. The JobZoneNetwork is a welcome expansion of our global focused talent acquisition technology offerings.”

Initial feedback from visitors has been very positive. Numerous users have commented on the ease of use and clean, targeted database of both jobs and candidates. In addition, the system gives users the ability to search by industry, location, and job type returning direct hits to queries with more specific matches.
